

Step by Step Instructions for Getting to the
BUF YouTube Channel
on your TV

By Naomi Gary

Key Words

.....YouTube (YouTube TV is an American streaming television service that offers live TV, on demand video and cloud-based DVR)

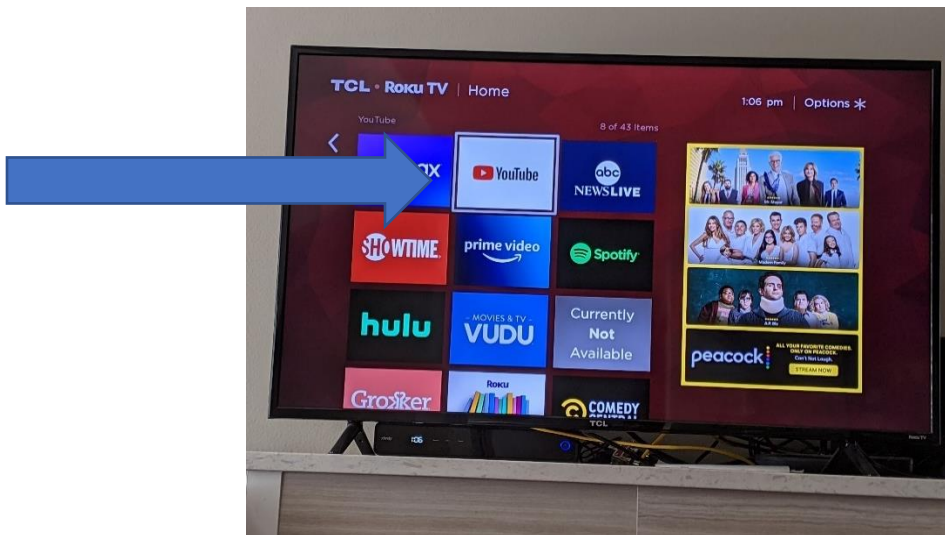

.....Remote (typically your TV Remote Control not your Cable remote control)

.....Click (use Arrow Buttons on your Remote to move around the TV page and the OK Button to choose the highlighted area)

Turn on your TV and look for the Streaming Channels.

Using your remote find the YouTube Icon and click OK to open it.

YouTube will load...

You have arrived at the YouTube Channel
on your TV!

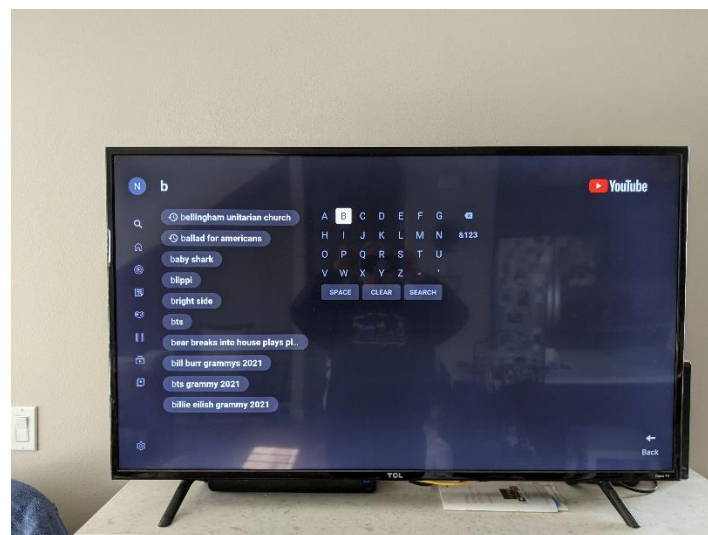

It might ask you who's watching? Click on your name.

First YouTube offers recommendations based on previous searches. It's one easy way to get to a channel you like.

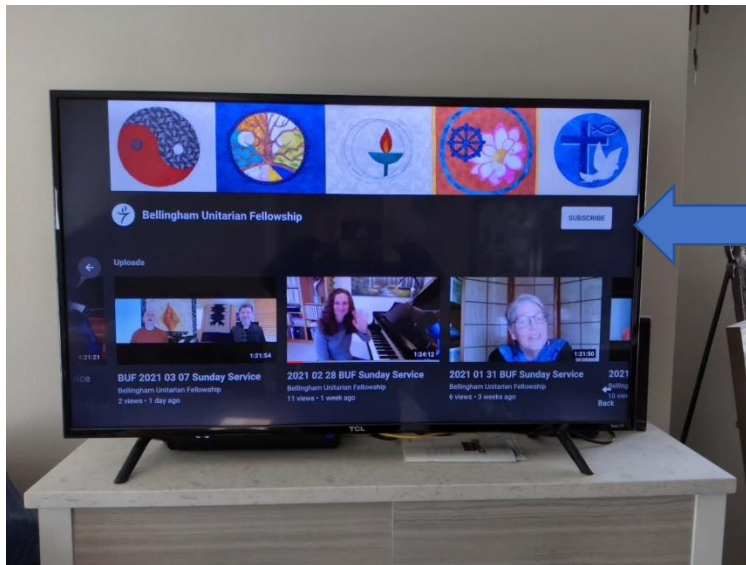

To “Search” for the BUF Channel click on the “magnifying glass” search Icon.

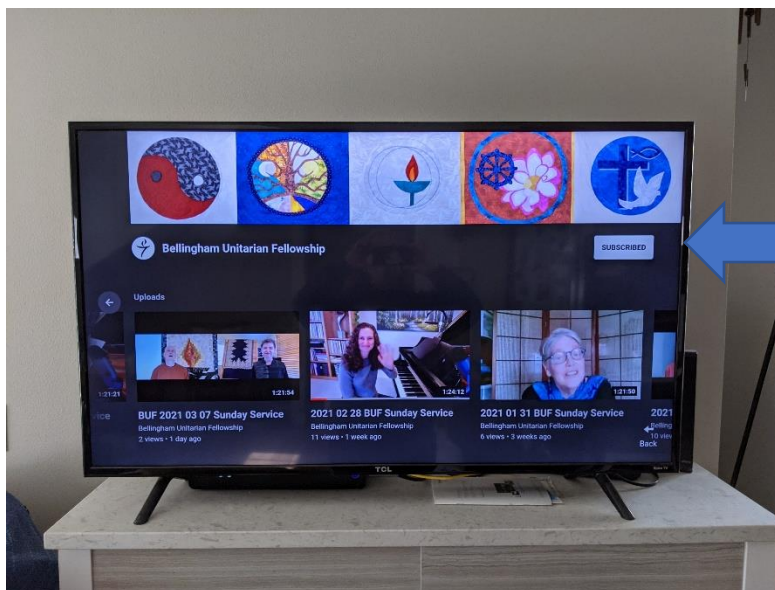

Use your remote to spell out Bellingham Unitarian and it will show you likely choices. Click on Bellingham Unitarian Church.

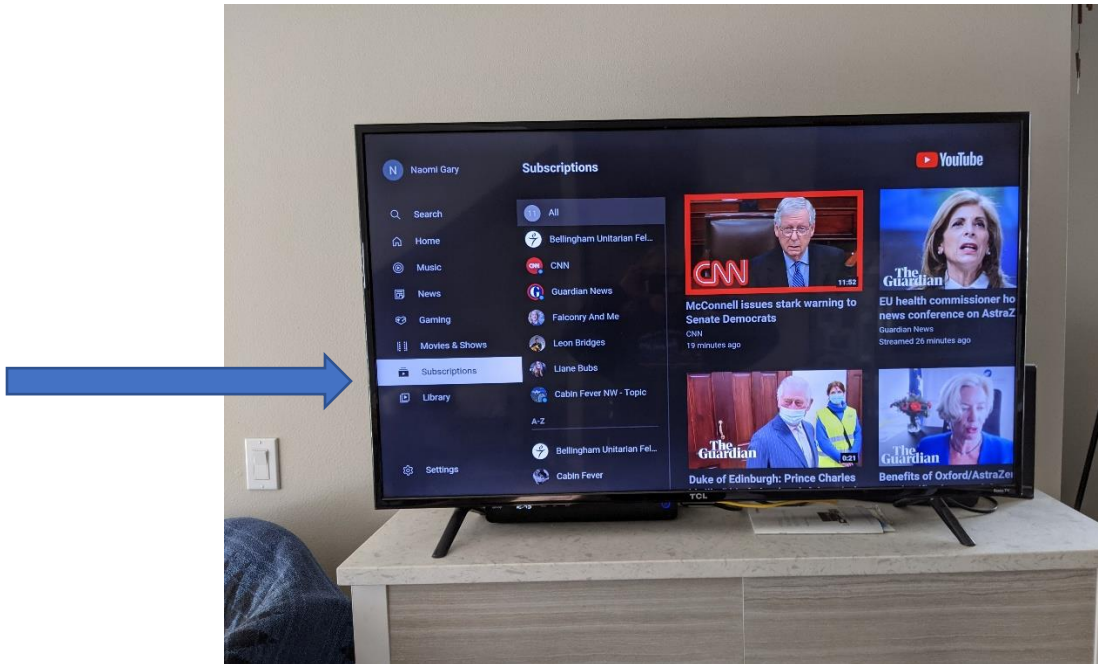

I don't know why it's called Church instead of Fellowship?

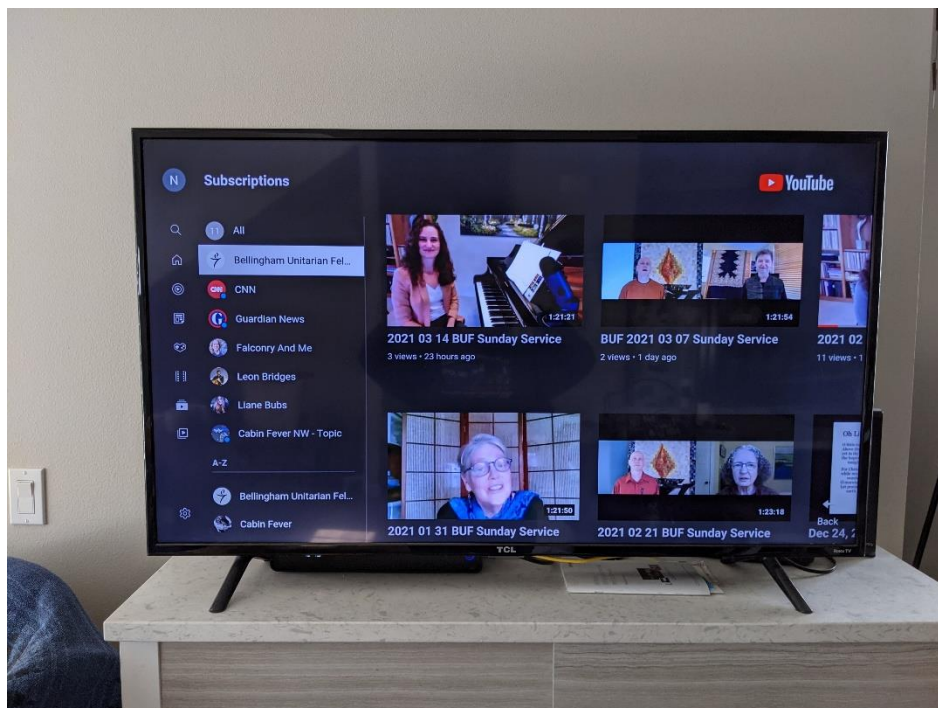

When you first open the BUF Channel, you will notice a Subscribe button on the righthand side. Click on it.

Now that button changed and says “Subscribed”.

Next time you open your YouTube Channel, you will find the BUF Channel easily under your subscriptions.

This is what it looks like.

Using your remote scroll over to the first video and click on it...

The YouTube video will start! You can pause it and exit just like any video by clicking on the appropriate buttons using your remote. Like anything new...the more you use it the more comfortable you'll get using it.

YouTube says over 2 billion people use its services every month!
